The Illinois Municipal Police Association Benevolent is proud to endorse Sarah Gallagher Chami for States Attorney of Dekalb County. Through her exemplary service as a felony prosecutor in Cook County, Sarah has shown the knowledge, perseverance, and integrity necessary to lead Dekalb County into the future.

Police officers risk their lives each time they take the streets to arrest offenders and protect the neighborhoods they serve. When tireless police work leads to an arrest, it is refreshing to turn the case over to a professional prosecutor who is dedicated to justice, expresses compassion to victims, and has the intelligence necessary to follow the case to a successful conclusion. Sarah Gallagher Chami has already proven herself as just such a prosecutor and deserves to be elected the next States Attorney of Dekalb County.

The office of States Attorney is too important to be handed over to a career politician or anyone who has never prosecuted a case. Dekalb County deserves someone with prosecutorial experience, tireless dedication, and an established background in the community. This is why the Illinois Municipal Police Association Benevolent endorses the clear choice, Sarah Gallagher Chami, as the next States Attorney of Dekalb County.

Sincerely,

Michael R. Ochsner, Jr.
President
